I think the best place for the development process is a LaTeX development environment, like textstudio (and all similar softwares).
I am afraid that a shortcut for _Update documents_ will one day lead me to erase all the capture stuff (and others) made so far, inadvertently ignoring the warning that shows up in this case.
Maybe this shortcut should be only available when there is no data capture yet (I have to learn how to make this possible).

Finally I added a mnemonic to this button. Beginning with revision commit:bba154fca997, Alt+U should call _Update documents_ (translations will follow).
