Description:	It is possible that some students have ID with different lengths. They encode their number in the answer sheet by putting zeros in front of their IDs. However, in the student list, IDs doesn't have zeros at the beginning. It is difficult to put zeros to all. ID = 00001 encoded in the answer sheet ID = 1 in the students list They should be associated.

This should be the case since revision r1143. Which AMC version do you use?

I use Auto Multiple Choice 1.0.3 (svn:704)

I installed it through Ubuntu Software Center. Now, I downloaded the latest tar.gz file but I couldn't install from tar.gz.

On Ubuntu, the simplest way to get a recent version is to use "AMC PPA":https://launchpad.net/~alexis.bienvenue/+archive/amc.
