Description:	While making the test, the user is usually concerned about the technical soundness of questions. Marking Scheme for each question is a huge distraction -- especially since many of us make the tests under time pressure. If a new tab is created in the AMC gui where the user can view all questions and set the marking scheme on the gui -- instead of editing the latex file, it would be of much use. Further, such a feature would make the latex input file look simpler -- with just the questions and options.
