Description:	The feature of sending automatic emails with the results is great. However, when the mail fails the log is really lackluster. The code that is displayed doesn't help to find which emails weren't send. There are several options: - make the email feature smarter, and retry in case of failure (after a set number of tries stop trying) - make a resend button, to send to the fail emails - show the email in the log, so one can manually resend them Even the last option will save a lot of time.

Added in version commit:654f9d22c86f:

* a log file records all tries: @mailing.log@ in the project directory.

* you can see the status of the last sending when you chose the students to send the mails to. I plan to add a button "select all failed sendings".

Please try!
